FOR IMMEDIATE PRESS RELEASE

September 25, 2006

German-based software company newest incubator client

James City County - The James City County Technology Incubator announced today the addition of Mombaur International Consulting Solutions, LLC as one of their newest clients. Mombaur International was initially recruited by the Hampton Roads Economic Development Alliance during one of their marketing visits to Germany in early 2001. HREDA later hosted Mr. Mombaur during his visit to the Hampton Roads region in May 2003.

Certified by the International Software Quality Institute (ISQI) for project management and International Software Testing Qualification Board (ISTQB) for testing and test management, Mombaur's Softconsult specializes in the development of software and software testing for use in medical, automotive, and aerospace industries. The German-based company, established in 1994, is the designer of "Softconsult-Process", a unique method of software development integrating a test laboratory and consulting services with research and tools. Softconsult's highly developed test laboratory is used for the external realization of all software development projects while the consulting component supports software development projects with the same performances of the test laboratory but as an internal service involving the client's development team. Notable Softconsult clients include Datec eG, Terraplan AG and TollColect Dornier.

This is the company's first location outside of Germany and the James City County Incubator, an affiliate of the Hampton Roads Technology Incubator System, is delighted to be the inaugural site of Mombaur's U.S. presence. "The Incubator's mission," noted Jennifer Barker, Business Manager of the JCC Technology Incubator, "is to help new businesses in the development and implementation of a strong marketing plan, facilitate networking connections, and provide other tools necessary for a successful beginning in Hampton Roads. We are thrilled that Mr. Mombaur has chosen the JCC Technology Incubator and James City County in particular, for his first international operation."

Mr. Roland Mombaur, a Certified Test Manager, Tester and Project Manager, the company founder and owner, currently resides in Toano, VA.
